

LIEUT. GREELY'S MEN

ALL OF THE PARTY ARE WELL AND GAINING DAILY.

Congratulations From Queen Victoria—Importance of the Work Accomplished by the Expedition—Honors to the Arctic Heroes—A Bitter Attack on Gen. Hazen.

The navy, has received the following telegram from Commander Schley, dated St. John's, Feb. 21: "Surgeon controls all matters affecting diet and diversion of Lieut. Greely and party. Acting under his advice, Lieut. Greely and I permit men only leave ship when he proscribes. Men are always required to be on board at p. m. Lieut. Greely is spending a day or two in the quiet enjoyment of Consul Mullooly's house. Under surgeon's counsel, all of the party are well and gaining daily. Lieut. Greely

An effort was made by Gen. Hazen to have the Greely party brought to Boston instead of Portsmouth, N. H., as had been decided upon. The committee, however, were more agreeable to the members of the party and more content to their relatives and friends to welcome them at the first named city. The proposition was laid before Rear Admiral Nichols, a Secretary Lincoln, who decided that the latter was not sufficient reason for changing the

The President replied as follows:
TO THE QUEEN OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, Windsor Castle.—The President for himself and for the people of the United States sincerely congratulates the queen for her most successful and gallant rescue of Lieutenant Greely and the survivors of his party, and is happy to say that favorable reports are on this occasion to express anew his high appreciation and that of the people of the United States for the timely gift of the Alert, a generous act added spirit and encouragement to the expedition.

Gen. Hazen furnishes the following statement with regard to the work and expenses of Lett, Greely's party at Lady Franklin Bay:

"The work done by the Greely expedition surpasses in importance, completeness, scope, that done by any other on record. It was made possible by a very careful and there for two years, enabling the party to take advantage of two entire summer seasons of deliberate exploration. It has shown the futility of the old belief that the farthest reaches of the continent are necessarily arid, to Arctic and that life there was constantly menaced by the great cold. It has shown that with discipline, suitable clothing, proper and abundant food, and a good, suitably warmed home, men can live there in perfect health and comfort for a considerable period of time. This fact is corroborated by Lieut. Hay's experience at Point Barrow, where, in two years, he has view more safe than in the crowded interior. Greatly interested in the thing, he tried to do in the two years at Lady Franklin bay, maintaining discipline without more serious frost-discomfort than is experienced everywhere in Dakota; without serious illness or discomfort of any member of his party, bringing them all safely and well, with all his records and instruments for final comparison to point back to the original expedition.

He solved the question of Arctic exploration of the future, and, with the additional practical judiciously locating suitable depots

NEWBURYPORT, MASS., July 22.—Sir K.
Kimball has received the following:

AN ATTACK ON HAZEN.

Lieut. Garlington's Counsel Writes the Signal Officer a Very Severe Letter.

Mr. Linden Keim, counsel for Lieut. Gaston before the Proteus court of inquiry, has written the following letter to Gen. Hazen, chief signal officer:

WASHINGTON, July 22, 1884.—GEN. W.

Your sole object, I must assume, is to fix responsibility for the loss of eighteen barrels where it properly belongs. In the shade of this great calamity I will not believe that you can have a less pure motive. We have through this investigation together, gen-same, I feel that you will the more readily accept the aid that I cheerfully tender to command.

The world now knows that the said eighteen victims was due to the failure deposit a proper quantity of stores at Sabine. You say that "the rations were in accordance with Lieut. Greely's instructions." Of course, if more stores had been left, lives would have been saved." The inference from this is that, while the lives lost were due to the fact that the stores were not left, the loss of the other Wherefore fault was it that there was not a sufficient deposit of stores at Cape Sabine? Garlington's, let him answer for it; if it was not would wish that he should remain under such suspicion.

In 1882 the Beebe expedition, under your instruction, was organized for the relief of Greely. It was transported north in the Albatross, and arrived at the vicinity of Cape Sabine on the 25th of July, and remained the 5th day of September, having been stopped in its northward course by a barrier of ice, in accordance with her instruction, "derive

The rest of her stores were by you brought back to St. John's and landed for future use. There was every opportunity for a cache of 10,000 rations, instead of 250,000, and you so directed your testimony before the court inquiring the 15th of November, 1884, you approved Mr. Beebe's course in thus making the cache as in accordance with your instructions though in your testimony before the court on the 23rd of November, in relation

Under your sole direction, the relief expedition of 1883 was sent north in the Protector Lieut. Gardiner's command, and a small party of men and supplies. Just as it headed back, orders were given to burn

UNIVERSAL DEFEAT THROWS THE ADMIRERS OF THE LOCAL BANK BALL CLUBS INTO MOURNING.

Nine stalwart men from Boston, twisted at critical points by some remarkably stalwart decisions by the umpire, came off victors in another intensely exciting game at Caputo park yesterday. The Bostonians made the Slattery led off with a bouncer, which Deasely barely reached sufficiently to partially stop. By the time it recovered it Slattery was on first base, but Deasely foolishly threw wildly to Joy, with the result of allowing slattery to run to second. Iwe followed with another very hot hit to Deasely, scoring first. A wild throw by Wise advanced each a base. O'Brien then hit a long fly to left field, which Moore caught, slattery scored on the throw in. Crane fouled out, and Hae-

The Nationals' run was made by Baker in the seventh inning. He made a clean hit and two men were out, and went to second. He then fanned the batter, and then threw a bobby Brown, who muffed it, allowing Baker to ease and tremendous applause from 2,000 excited spectators. The Nationals outbatted their opponents but could not buntch their hits. It was their base running, always judicious, Green made a line hit and tried for two bases in the ninth inning, and was caught, but was out of the game. The Nationals' slatiary. He threw the ball from the first distance of 100 yards or more. Green and Moore have batted at second, when, with one out, a run might have followed. Wise off with a two-bagger in the fourth, but Ever popped up a little fly to O'Brien. Green went on a fly to Slattery, who made a magnificent catch, and Voss struck out. Swarbrick sitting on the bench, things do not seem to center the minds of the three players. In the eighth inning, at Moore had gone out on a weak hit to pitch. Wise and Evers made base hits, but the ump called Green out on strikes, one of which below his knee, and Voss struck out by hitting at balls he could not have reached with a foot pole. Voss is a good honest player, but a captain and leader, his bats hitting something like a hammer. He is a good worker on both sides was splendidly done, sister's exhibition being seldom excelled as one of Baker's catches one of the best made on the grounds. Wise and Gunn worked together perfectly. Evers played fine at second, the two errors he is charged with having been more due to Wise changing direction of the balls on which they were made.

Grover's was in no account at the bat on Monday, but that no one could doubt the club's success should allow to interfere with his efficiency. Great confirmed the opinion formed of him on Monday, and played without an error. Irwin, O'Brien, Crane, and Murman did the work in their positions, as also did Hackett, except W. Deasley came to the bat, he fumbling the grounders to the batsmen. Later, two girls came not good. Mr. Butler was sorely unblasted, but he was largely instrumental in defeating the Nationals. All his close decisions were in favor of Boston, and in each surely gave the game to them. His calling balls and strikes was faulty, and once Voss clearly made a scratch base hit he decided foul, when the ball at no time was outside the foul lines before it was fielded. The clubs play again to-day. The score follows:

The second game between the Washingtons and Alleghenys resulted in the defeat of the home club, a conclusion brought about mainly by poor base running, as they had little trouble of the batting, and their errors were more costly than their opponents. The pitchers were extremely wild, and both batted hard at times. Hanna and Hayes fine work behind the bat. Olin took two foul flys and led the batting, followed closely by Morgan, Swartwood and Hayes han-

The visitors did this in the third, McEwen getting first on balls, Lauer on a fumble. Hawkes, and Cota being sent home. White's long hit to right for three, but which was misjudged by Morgan. In fourth they jumped on Hannell with a sacrifice fly, and a single to left. St. Louis hitting hard and safe, aided by a base ball, and a wild pitch, landing five runs.
